

Jason Curts, Web Development & Social Media

Jason Curts is a web development, writing, and social media consultant who collaborates with the nonprofit sector to develop and implement social media and website strategies.

He previously worked with KNM Creative Services, providing writing and content solutions for small business clients. The advent of social media and its influence on business and marketing led Jason to start his own venture, JLC Writing Services.

Today, he works closely with clients to produce targeted solutions related to social media and websites. His goal is to create an online presence for organizations across a spectrum of social avenues, including Facebook, Twitter, LinkedIn and blogging platforms.

Past client engagements include the David Belk Cannon Foundation, Catawba Lands Conservancy, Berlin Family Foundation, and Dr. Will Sparks.

Jason provides both managed and turn-key options to fit an organization's budget guidelines. He has a BS in Journalism from the University of Florida and operates a virtual office from his home in Charlotte, North Carolina.
